BEAMISH

No recreation of the history of North East England would be complete without a colliery and the people who worked and lived around it.

Beamish Tramway, opened in 1973, serves to re-create the experience and atmosphere of tramway operation from an earlier generation, whilst providing an essential means of transport for visitors around the site.

Explore our 1950s Farm and discover the story of upland farming in the North East during the 1950s.

We seek your views on this or is there somewhere else you can think of

WOMEN WITH BRAINS PLUS GOOD PHYSIQUE ARE WANTED. THE PAY AND PROSPECTS ARE GOOD, BUT—THEY MUST NEVER MARRY OR THEIR CAREER WILL END!

They are needed as recruits for the Metropolitan Police Force, and Sir Philip Game, Chief Commissioner, and Miss Peto, Chief of the Women's Branch, are making a special appeal to—
Spinsters and widows, girls in universities and public schools, and girls with training in nursing and social work.
Married women need not apply.

THEY MUST BE HEFTY

Good pay is being offered—53s. 3d. a week, with free quarters in special hostels.
But a high standard of intelligence, tact and physique is being demanded.
The recruits must be at least five feet four inches high.
They must be hefty enough to withstand a "rough and tumble," and they must be fairly good looking.
